SANDHOLLOW, UTAH

Leading Our Classes...

Have you ever wanted to race at a place so beautiful and serene that you would think it was illegal to even fire up your engine? Well, this past weekend we got the chance to do just that! The 4th round of WORCS took us to Sandhollow, Utah.

Racing started on Saturday morning. Rick and Donna started on the same line but in their own classes. Rick got the holeshot and never looked back. He checked out and started catching the lines ahead of him. He took a few sand samples but managed to stay safe, not get hurt and maintain his lead to the finish. That is 4 straight wins!!

Donna got a great jump off the line with her Maxxis Razr XC's but when she shifted into 2nd her bike stuck in neutral causing a little hiccup. She didn't skip a beat though. She got two passes before they crossed the road two corners later and then she passed for 2nd place and then 1st place and led every lap to the checkered flag. It was a rough and beautiful course. Donna also secured her 4th straight win in Women's A!

Thank you HXF for bringing out my best!

Sunday Funday...Sunday Sore Day!

The morning started early! Donna was on the first line in the Sport A class and Rick was on Row two in the 30+ A class, the race started at 8am. Donna had a good race making a few passes and finishing 4th. She is still leading both of her classes, Women's A and Sport A!

Rick had a challenging race when he and another rider made contact causing him to spin out and stall the bike. He was able to get going again and make his way back to 2nd place. Then on the next lap he hit a deep rut that bucked him off the quad. He was thankful it was in the soft sand. He put his head down and tried to catch up to first place but would have to settle for 2nd place! He is currently leading both of his classes, 50+A and 30+A.

Donna had to haul butt so she could quickly refill her water pack and grab a quick bite to eat while Rick fueled her bike and changed her air filter. Unfortunately this weekend the ProAm was basically right after her other race. She made it to the line and fought a hard battle with herself and her body the whole 2hr and 15 minute race. She finished 9th in ProAm!! Pretty good considering she was the only one to race 3 1/2 hours!
